

BOWED ASSENT

Deaf-Mute is Wedded

NO INTERPRETER

Unusual interest was attached to a wedding at St. Thomas' Church, Auburn, on Saturday, when Mr. Frank Feuerriegel, a deaf-mute, was married to Mrs. Mary Collins.

The rector (Rev. G. P. Birk) performed the ceremony without the assistance of an interpreter.

The clergyman put the question to the bridegroom by reading from a prayer book opened in front of him, his finger touching each word as he read the passage. The groom assented by bowing his head.

"With this ring I thee wed," said the rector, as Mr. Feuerriegel slipped the ring on to his bride's finger. Again the groom bowed in assent.

Then he kissed his bride and together they entered the vestry to sign the register.

A butcher, Mr. Feuerriegel and his bride will live in Park-road, Auburn.
